6. TARIFF OF UNITED STATES CONSULAR FEES ¹

The following Tariff of United States Consular Fees is prescribed by the President under authority of section 1745, Revised Statutes, as amended by the acts of April 5, 1906, c. 1366, sections 7, 8, and 9, 34 Stat. 101, and June 4, 1920, c. 223, sections 1 and 2, 41 Stat. 750, to be charged by consular officers for official services. All charges for such services must be in strict accordance with this tariff, and be collected in the coin of the United States or at its representative value in exchange. No fee or compensation will be collected for any service not covered by this tariff.

The fees in this tariff are not prescribed for American vessels and seamen, because they are exempted by law from the payment of consular fees. Consular agents will make the fees in this tariff a basis of collection from the Treasury for services to such vessels. Foreign-built vessels, unregistered, owned by American citizens, and vessels documented under the laws of the Philippine Islands are not exempt from the payment of the fees prescribed herein.

Services, except those for which fees are fixed in items 8, 9, and 10, under this tariff shall be rendered free of charge when performed: (a) In connection with the settlement of the estate of any employee of the United States dying abroad while on official duty; (b) for the use of any person in the collection of claims from the United States or from any State for compensation, pensions, back pay, bounty, bonus, property loss in the service of the United States; (c) for obtaining the return of property held by the Alien Property Custodian; and (d) for the official use of the United States Veterans' Bureau.

Consular officers must require all fees to be paid in advance and before the stamps are canceled, except in case of attendance out of office or of commissions, when the amount can not be determined until the service is performed. Advance deposits to cover fees in such latter cases may be accepted but in no other.

This tariff is effective July 1, 1929, and should be posted in a conspicuous place in consular offices as required by section 1731, Revised Statutes.

MIXED TRIBUNALS OF EGYPT

In 1876, as the result of negotiations between the Ottoman and Egyptian Governments and the various Christian powers represented at Cairo, courts were created in Egypt having: exclusive jurisdiction over all litigation in civil and commercial matters between natives and foreigners and between foreigners of different nationalities, with the exception of cases involving personal status; jurisdiction over real estate actions between natives and foreigners or between foreigners of the same nationality or of different nationalities; and jurisdiction over suits of foreigners against the Egyptian Government or members of the Khedival (now Royal) family.

There are three tribunals of original jurisdiction (first instance), one each at Cairo, Alexandria, and Mansura, and a court of appeals at Alexandria. The judiciary is made up of foreign and Egyptian judges, who were at a recent date 70 in number, 17 serving on the bench of the court of appeals. Judgments in the lower courts are rendered by three judges, of whom two are foreigners, and in the court of appeals by five judges, of whom three are foreigners. The foreign judges are appointed by the Egyptian Government with the approval and authorization of their own Government.

The American judges on these courts are:

Court of Appeals: Jasper Yeates Brinton, of Pennsylvania

Courts of First Instance:

Pierre Crabités, of Louisiana

Robert Llewellyn Henry, of Louisiana

Julian Wright, of New York

Consular courts continue to exercise general criminal jurisdiction over their nationals, to decide matters involving the personal status and family law of their nationals, and to adjudicate civil and commercial suits in which both the plaintiffs and the defendants are of the same nationality.

19. REGULATIONS CONCERNING PRECEDENCE OF DIPLOMATIC AGENTS

The rules on this subject which have been prescribed by the Department are the same as those contained in the seven rules of the Congress of Vienna, found in the protocol of the session of March 9, 1815, and in the supplementary or eighth rule of the Congress of Aix-la-Chapelle of November 21, 1818. They are as follows:

ARTICLE 1. Diplomatic agents are divided into three classes: That of ambassadors, legates, or nuncios; that of envoys, ministers, or other persons accredited to sovereigns; that of chargés d'affaires accredited to ministers for foreign affairs.

ART. 2. Ambassadors, legates, or nuncios only have the representative character.

ART. 3. Diplomatic agents on an extraordinary mission have not, on that account, any superiority of rank.

ART. 4. Diplomatic agents shall take precedence in their respective classes according to the date of the official notification of their arrival. The present regulation shall not cause any innovation with regard to the representative of the Pope.

ART. 5. A uniform mode shall be determined in each State for the reception of diplomatic agents of each class.

ART. 6. Relations of consanguinity or of family alliance between courts confer no precedence on their diplomatic agents. The same rule also applies to political alliances.

ART. 7. In acts or treaties between several powers which grant alternate precedence, the order which is to be observed in the signatures shall be decided by lot between the ministers.

ART. 8. . . . It is agreed that ministers resident accredited to them shall form, with respect to their precedence, an intermediate class between ministers of the second class and chargés d'affaires.

20. ORGANIZATION OF THE FOREIGN SERVICE

GENERAL INFORMATION

CONDUCT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS

The President is charged under the Constitution with the responsibility of conducting the foreign relations of the United States.

The Secretary of State is his adviser in such matters and acts as the agent through whom he issues his instructions to the Foreign Service which forms the field force through which the necessary contacts with foreign governments are established and maintained.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

A nation's foreign relations grow out of the whole range of transactions entered upon by its citizens with the nationals and governments of other countries.

As these transactions engender controversies, there arises from time to time the need for the making of treaties or international agreements, understandings, and arbitrations. These agreements and understandings constitute the body of international law or the international charters under which the peoples of the several countries conduct their intercourse.

THE FOREIGN SERVICE

The Foreign Service of the United States is the service established by law to assist American citizens who have occasion to travel or to do business abroad to understand what their rights are while abroad and to protect them in the exercise of those rights.

The Foreign Service also performs the very important function of collecting and transmitting for the use of the Secretary of State information bearing upon conditions abroad in the countries where American citizens travel and trade. This information must not only be currently accurate and complete, but with it must be supplied dependable forecasts of the probable course of events.

The Foreign Service of the United States consists of a number of officers classified by salary, who perform the varied duties required. Some conception of the range of these duties may be obtained from the following outline.

The efficient Foreign Service officer—

Creates good will and common understanding, and, with restrained and critical leadership born of mature experience and profound knowledge of men and affairs, uses these as instruments for enhancing international confidence and cooperation among governments and people.

Adapts himself, his conduct, and his mode of living, appropriately to climate and surroundings in the country to which he is assigned.

Learns to speak the language of the country in a manner that reveals a background of intelligence and cultivation.

Comprehends his own country, and with unremitting endeavor comes to understand deeply the foreign country where he is stationed.

From this body of officers the men are chosen to perform the tasks that the Government of the United States requires to be done abroad. At the commencement of their careers all are assigned to the several consulates as vice consuls. As these officers make reputations for themselves in the Service, they are assigned to posts where their services are most needed, whether at consulates or at diplomatic posts.

Consular posts are established at trade and communication centers where the actual business of international commerce, transportation, and travel is carried on and where the officer is required to deal with the entrance and clearance of United States vessels, the granting of bills of health to ships departing for the United States, the care of seamen, the documentation of cargoes exported to the United States, the visaing of the travel documents of aliens coming to the United States, the issuance of passports to American citizens, the making of surveys of conditions under which American commerce and trade may profitably be carried on. Diplomatic missions are established at the political capitals of foreign states for the purpose of maintaining direct contact between the Government of the United States and the foreign government concerned. The Foreign Service officer is given opportunity for a variety of service at consular posts and at diplomatic posts, as the needs of the posts may require.

The manner of entrance into the Service as officers is prescribed by the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service. (See post, pp. 357-363.)

LANGUAGE STUDENTS

Selection will be made annually of a few officers from among new appointees in the Foreign Service who have shown special aptitude for acquiring languages, and who possess the other necessary qualifications, for assignment to study the languages of China, Japan, the Near East, Eastern Europe, and North Africa, where, in addition to learning and performing the usual diplomatic and consular duties, they will be expected to acquire familiarity with the language of the country and with the laws, customs, history, and race psychology of the people, with a view to serving for the most part in the area of their assignment. Officers selected for these assignments may receive, in addition to their salaries, an allowance for language tuition, and may be provided with quarters. This is one of the attractive fields of activity in the Foreign Service and offers unusual opportunities for rendering distinguished service to the Government.

Regulations governing Foreign Service officers assigned for language study will be found on pages 359-363.

FOREIGN SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The written portion of the examination is held at the offices of the civil-service district secretaries in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Denver, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, San Francisco, Seattle, and Washington. The grades made by the candidates in the written tests are communicated to them in due time, and they are informed of the date on which they may appear in Washington to complete the examination by taking the oral tests and the physical examination.

Candidates seeking designation for examination may obtain from the Department of State upon request forms of application for appointment. Applications and all correspondence relating thereto should be addressed to the Secretary of State, who will in due course notify by letter such applicants as may be designated for examination. The letter of designation furnishes all information necessary as to the date and places of the examination.

In accordance with civil-service principles, the names of those candidates who are successful in the examination are placed on the list of persons eligible for appointment as Foreign Service officers in the order of the ratings attained in the examination. Appointments to the service are made from this list beginning with the candidate who has the highest rating regardless of the date on which his eligibility was established

APPLICATIONS

All applications, whether for designation for examination or for appointment to a clerkship, must be filled out completely in the handwriting of the applicant, and accompanied by five indorsements in the form of letters from competent and responsible persons, attesting the moral character, integrity, good deportment, and ability of the applicant, his business experience, and his qualifications as set forth in the application. The originals of all indorsements listed in the application must be filed therewith; copies are not acceptable. Indorsements remain a part of the Government records and may not be withdrawn while a person remains an applicant or while he is an officer or employee of the Department of State.

Applications should also be accompanied by a birth certificate and an unmounted photograph of the applicant with his name written thereon.

Applicants for appointment, in their correspondence with the Department, should always sign their names as given in their applications, without enlargement or contraction, one given name at least being used.

An applicant should be particularly careful to give his legal residence correctly. The Department of State does not undertake to determine an applicant's legal residence.

Applicants are required to state if they have had, or still have, outstanding financial obligations and, if so, the nature and extent thereof.

An application is considered as pending for a period of two years. After such period has elapsed another application with new indorsements will be necessary to obtain further consideration.

There are about 450 posts in the two branches of the Foreign Service, presenting many peculiar climatic, social, and racial conditions. Candidates can not be certified as eligible to serve at a few posts only, but must be chosen from the standpoint of their availability for at least a majority of the posts. Officers must expect assignment to tropical and unhealthful posts as well as to posts where healthful climatic conditions prevail.

Many colleges and universities furnish courses covering the subjects of Foreign Service examinations. The Government does not recommend any particular institutions or furnish a course of study in any educational institution. It is suggested that prospective candidates correspond with respect to courses with any institution they might wish to attend. Persons teaching the subjects embraced in the examination should be prepared to suggest the best textbooks.

The Foreign Service Officers' Training School established in the Department of State is for the instruction of persons who have passed the prescribed examinations and have been appointed Foreign Service officers, unclassified. Candidates preparing for examination are not admitted to this school.

The Department does not furnish information regarding vacancies or possible vacancies in the Foreign Service.

Applicants for examination are referred to the regulations of the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service on pages 357-363.

The attention of applicants for examination is called to the following Executive order of January 13, 1920:

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 3215 OF JANUARY 13, 1920

The Executive Order of October 13, 1905, as amended on May 17, 1919, is hereby amended to read as follows:

No officer or employee of the Government shall, directly or indirectly, instruct or be concerned in any manner in the instruction of any person or classes of persons, with a view to their special preparation for the examinations of the United States Civil Service Commission. The fact that any officer or employee is found so engaged shall be considered sufficient cause for his removal from the service: Provided, that this order shall not be so construed as to prevent the Federal Board for Vocational Education, the Medical Departments of the Army and Navy, and any other branches of the Government from utilizing the government facilities and the services of federal officers and employees where such facilities or services may be necessary or useful in carrying out the duties imposed upon such departments or branches by law, in the training and testing of disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines.

As amended the order extends to government establishments generally the exemption heretofore made in the case of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

WOODROW WILSON

THE WHITE HOUSE,

CLERKS

Persons sent abroad as clerks in the Foreign Service receive initial compensation from $1,500 to $2,000 a year. Compensation begins upon the date of departure for the post to which they are assigned. Transportation expenses are paid by the Government, under certain regulations.

Appointees are expected to remain in the Service for at least two years, and their transportation expenses in returning to the United States in case of resignation are not payable unless they have served for that period. They are, furthermore, expected to accept such assignments or transfers as the Department may deem desirable in the best interests of the Service. No appointments can be considered for special countries, although a statement as to preferences of assignment is welcomed by the Department.

Such appointments are restricted to those who are unmarried and without dependents, as it is seldom found practicable to pay compensation in an amount sufficiently large to justify the appointment of married men, nor is the appropriation for transportation sufficient to permit the payment of transportation of wives and families of clerks in the Foreign Service.

The employment of citizens or subjects of foreign powers as clerks in the diplomatic branch of the Foreign Service is prohibited by law.

Women are equally eligible with men for clerkships in the Foreign Service. However, the climatic and social conditions at many posts render it impossible for women to serve at them with satisfaction to themselves and advantage to the Government.

The duties of clerks consist of such routine work as may be assigned to them by the officers in charge. An idea of the scope of these duties may be gained from a perusal of the functions of Foreign Service officers which are enumerated elsewhere in this publication. It is desirable that clerks should be stenographers and possess a knowledge of the language of the country in which they are to be employed.

It is the practice of the Department to commission clerks as vice consuls only when a need exists at the office to which they are assigned, and not until they have served for a sufficient period to judge of their abilities and conduct and that they merit such recognition. Clerks commissioned as vice consuls not of career are not eligible to promotion to the grade of Foreign Service officer without undergoing the prescribed examinations. A commission as vice consul not of career does not carry with it an increase in compensation.

No formal examination is required for appointment to a clerkship; the Department, however, reserves the right to examine an applicant in any particular it may deem advisable.

No one who is under 21 or over 35 years of age or who is not in excellent physical condition will be considered for these positions. The Department may require the applicant to undergo a physical examination.

Application blanks for clerical appointments may be obtained from the Division of Foreign Service Personnel, Department of State. For further information regarding applications for such appointments, see page 344.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The following are excerpts from Executive Order No. 5642 of June 8, 1931,¹ issued in consequence of the act of February 23, 1931:

Proportional representation.—In making designations to take the prescribed examinations to determine eligibility for appointment, and in appointments after examination, due regard will be had to the principle that as between candidates of equal merit, appointments should be made so as to tend to secure proportional representation of all the States and Territories in the Foreign Service; and neither in the designation for examination, nor in certification, nor in appointment after examination, will the political affiliations of the candidates be considered.

Entrance grade of officers.—New appointments to the service shall be to the grade of Foreign Service officer, unclassified, and no promotions to a higher grade shall be made except in conformity with law and regulations with respect thereto. This provision does not apply to reinstatements or transfers from the Department of State under section 12 of the act of February 23, 1931. (Act of Feb. 23, 1931, secs. 9, 31, and 32.)

Foreign Service officers' training school.—There is hereby established in the Department of State a Foreign Service officers' training school for the instruction of new appointees.

The Foreign Service officers' training school shall be under the direction of a board composed of the following members, to wit: The Assistant Secretaries of State composing the Board of Foreign Service Personnel, one Foreign Service officer assigned for duty in the Division of Foreign Service Personnel, and the director of the Foreign Service officers' training school. The board will act in all matters with the approval of the Secretary of State.

The director of the school shall be selected by the other members of the school board from among the officers of the Foreign Service, with the approval of the Secretary of State.

Instructors shall be selected from among the qualified officers of the Department of State, the Foreign Service, other executive departments of the Government, and any available sources, in the discretion of the school board.

The term of instruction in the Foreign Service officers' training school shall be considered a period of probation during which the new appointees are to be judged as to their qualifications for advancement and assignment to duty. At the end of the term, recommendations shall be made to the Secretary of State by the Board of Foreign Service Personnel for the dismissal of any who may have failed to meet the required standard of the service.

The Secretary of State is authorized to prescribe rules and regulations for the governance of the Foreign Service officers' training school.

Appointments of secretaries in the diplomatic service and consular officers.—The President nominates, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints secretaries in the diplomatic service, consuls general, consuls, vice consuls of career, and language officers. (U.S. Constitution, Art. II, sec. 2.) Vice consuls not of career and consular agents are appointed by the Secretary of State.

Oath of office.—Whenever any person is appointed to any office of honor or trust under the Government of the United States he shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe to the following oath: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God." (R.S. 1757; U.S.C. title 5, sec. 16.)

The foregoing requirement applies to all Foreign Service officers, secretaries in the diplomatic service, consuls general, consuls, vice consuls, language officers, and, if citizens of the United States, to consular agents.

The oath of office may be taken before any officer who is authorized, either by the laws of the United States or by the local municipal law, to administer oaths in the State, Territory, or District where such oath may be administered. (R.S. 1758; U.S.C. title 5, sec. 18.) The oath may not, however, be taken abroad except before some officer of the United States authorized to administer oaths.

"Section 1742 of the Revised Statutes is hereby repealed.

"SEC. 23. That the part of the Act of July 1, 1916 (Public, Numbered 131), which authorizes the President to designate and assign any secretary of class 1 as counselor of embassy or legation, is hereby amended to read as follows:

RETIREMENT SYSTEM

REPORT OF FUNDS—APPROPRIATIONS

"(a) The Secretary of State shall submit annually a comparative report showing all receipts and disbursements on account of refunds, allowances, and annuities, together with the total number of persons receiving annuities and the amounts paid them, and shall submit annually estimates of appropriations necessary to continue this section in full force and such appropriations are hereby authorized: Provided, That in no event shall the aggregate total appropriations exceed the aggregate total of the contributions of the Foreign Service officers theretofore made, and accumulated interest thereon.

RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

"(b) There is hereby created a special fund to be known as the Foreign Service retirement and disability fund.

FIVE PER CENT DEDUCTION—BASIC SALARIES

"(c) Five per centum of the basic salary of all Foreign Service officers eligible to retirement shall be contributed to the Foreign Service retirement and disability fund, and the Secretary of the Treasury is directed on the date on which this Act takes effect to cause such deductions to be made and the sums transferred on the books of the Treasury Department to the credit of the Foreign Service retirement and disability fund for the payment of annuities, refunds, and allowances: Provided, That all basic salaries in excess of $10,000 per annum shall be treated as $10,000.

AGE OF RETIREMENT

"(d) When any Foreign Service officer has reached the age of sixty-five years and rendered at least fifteen years of service he shall be retired: Provided, That if any such officer shall have served thirty years he may be retired at his own request before reaching the age of sixty-five years: Provided further, That the President may in his discretion retain any such officer on active duty for such period prior to his reaching seventy years of age, as he may deem for the interests of the United States.

ANNUITY CLASSES

The Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, in the discharge of the duty entrusted to it by the order of the President dated June 8, 1931, of formulating rules for and determining the scope and method of examinations of applicants for admission to the Foreign Service, prescribes the following regulations:

1. Examinations for unclassified grade only.—Examinations will be for the grade of Foreign Service officer, unclassified, with the understanding that successful candidates will be assigned to the diplomatic or consular branch of the Foreign Service according to the needs of the Service and the special qualifications of the candidates.

2. Time of examinations.—Examinations will be held one or more times each year, upon dates to be publicly announced through the press. All persons designated for examination will be notified in writing in advance of the examination. Examinations for particular candidates on dates other than those on which the regular examinations occur will not be held except as provided in section 3.

3. Place of examination.—All examinations will be held in Washington or at other places specified in the letter of designation. Candidates for examination who are clerks and employees in the Foreign Service may be permitted to take the written examination at their posts of duty upon a regular examination date specified by the Board and the oral examination upon the occasion of their presence in Washington after the date of taking the written examination. This oral examination, for subordinates in the Service only, will be held on the second Tuesday of February, April, June, August, October, and December of each year.

4. Closing of designations.—No designations will be made within the 40 days immediately preceding the date set for the holding of the written portion of an examination.

5. Scope of examination.—The examinations shall be both written and oral, except that American clerks and employees in the Foreign Service who have rendered satisfactory service in such capacities for the five years immediately preceding application for appointment as Foreign Service officers shall be exempted from the written examinations prescribed for other candidates. The written examination will include the subjects prescribed by the President, to wit: elements of international, maritime, and commercial law; arithmetic as used in commercial statistics, tariff calculations, exchange and simple accounting; modern languages (French, Spanish, or German is required, and a candidate may offer, in the oral test, in addition to one of these any languages with which he may be familiar); elementary economics, including the natural, industrial, and commercial resources of the United States; political and commercial geography; American history, government, and institutions since 1776; and history of Europe, Latin America, and the Far East since 1776. Candidates will also be examined in political economy, and they will be rated in English, composition, grammar, punctuation, spelling, and penmanship as shown by their replies to questions in the written examination.

The oral examination will be designed to ascertain the physical, mental, and temperamental qualifications of candidates for the proper performance of the duties of the Foreign Service; their character, ability, address, judgment, fitness, general education, culture, contemporary information, experience, and business ability. In this part of the examination the applications previously filed, together with all other available information concerning the candidates, will be utilized in ascertaining the pertinent facts.

6. Method of examination.—The written examination will be conducted for the Board by the Civil Service Commission and will usually occupy three days. The oral examination will be conducted by the Board after the candidates shall have completed the written examination. Candidates attaining a rating below 60 in the written tests will not be admitted to the oral examination. The physical fitness of the candidates will be determined by Government surgeons in Washington or elsewhere acting in an advisory capacity to the Board of Examiners, in accordance with the standards prescribed by the Board. Candidates who attain a passing mark in the combined written and oral examinations, but who are rejected as a result of their physical examination, may take a subsequent physical examination to determine whether the defects found in the first examination still exist. This subsequent physical examination shall be taken within four months from the date of the original examination.

9. Results of examinations.—The results of the examinations will be made known to candidates as soon as the report of the Board shall have been submitted to the Secretary of State, and they will be informed of the rating in each subject and the average in the written examination, the total rating in the oral examination, which includes the physical examination, and the rating on the whole examination. No information in regard to the details of the oral examination will be made public.

10. Duration of eligibility.—The names of eligible candidates who have not been appointed or whose names have not been withdrawn by the candidates will remain upon the eligible list for two years from the date of certification, when they will be dropped therefrom, and the candidates will not again be eligible for appointment except upon a new application, designation, and examination. Eligible candidates who have been appointed and who do not accept appointment will not again be eligible for appointment except as hereinbefore provided.

11. Failure to report.—Candidates who fail to report for the examination for which they have been duly designated may not be admitted to a subsequent examination unless specifically designated to take such subsequent examination.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 4879, MAY 8, 1928

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE SELECTION, TRAINING, AND PROMOTION OF FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICERS FOR LANGUAGE ASSIGNMENTS IN THE NEAR EAST, IN EASTERN EUROPE, AND IN NORTH AFRICA

Chapter IV-9 of the Instructions to Diplomatic Officers of the United States is hereby established:

IV-9. Regulations governing the selection, training and promotion of Foreign Service officers for language assignments in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, and in North Africa.

The following regulations shall henceforth govern the selection, training and promotion of Foreign Service officers for language assignments in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, and in North Africa:

(a) Countries included

For the purposes of these regulations the Near East, Eastern Europe, and North Africa consist of the following countries: Afghanistan, Albania, Algeria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Estonia, Ethiopia, Greece, Hedjaz, Iraq, Latvia, Lithuania, Morocco, Palestine, Persia, Poland, Rumania, Russia and Siberia, Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, Syria and the Lebanon, Tripoli, Tunis, and Turkey.

(b) Application for assignment

Any Foreign Service officer, unclassified, ($2,500 Grade) may make application for language assignment in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, or in North Africa. Such applications shall be submitted to the Personnel Board for consideration and approval, if the applicants are believed to possess the required intellectual, moral and physical qualifications, and the assignments are considered to be in the best interests of the Service.

(c) Probationary period

A Foreign Service officer whose application for language assignment has been approved shall undergo a probationary period of a year and a half at a consular post in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, or in North Africa.

(d) Physical examinations

At the conclusion of the probationary period the candidate shall undergo a physical examination conducted by a physician of whose competence the Department shall be satisfied and who shall certify that the Foreign Service officer is in sound health after a year and a half of residence in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, or in North Africa, and that he has no physical defect or weakness which would prevent his assignment for duty in any part of the Near East, of Eastern Europe, or of North Africa.

(e) Mental examinations

At the conclusion of the probationary period the Foreign Service officer shall also be examined in such form and manner and by such person or persons as the Personnel Board shall determine with reference to each particular case. No fixed standard shall be prescribed for this examination which shall be primarily an opportunity for judgment by competent persons of the seriousness of purpose and special aptitude of the Foreign Service officer.

(f) Formal studies

Foreign Service officers who have successfully undergone the probationary period and the examinations prescribed at the conclusion thereof shall pursue their formal studies in the languages, history, etc., of Asia and of Eastern Europe at such institution or institutions as the Department may designate in each case.

In addition to his salary each Foreign Service officer on language assignment for duty in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, or in North Africa is allowed the cost of tuition at the rate of $350.00 per annum, but this allowance ceases upon the completion of the studies specified in this paragraph.

Foreign Service officers pursuing language study abroad shall be assigned to the consulate in the district where the institution at which the studies are being carried on is located and shall be under the control and supervision of the principal consular officer.

(g) Period of study

The normal course of language study shall be for three years and the languages to be presented shall ordinarily be for candidates for language assignments in the non-Slavic countries of the Near East and in North Africa: Arabic, Turkish and Persian—all three, but with special emphasis upon one only; and in the case of candidates for language assignments in the Slavic countries of Eastern Europe and the Near East: Russian. The Personnel Board may in its discretion modify the provisions of this paragraph to meet the needs of particular cases.

(h) Proof of progress

The examinations and diplomas of institutions at which language officers are studying shall be considered by the Department as sufficient proof of progress and accomplishment in studies and no further examinations or tests shall be required.

The principal consular officer in the district where the institution at which a language officer is studying is located shall receive from the competent authorities of such institution and shall communicate to the Department the results of the examinations of Foreign Service officers as well as any other reports concerning their progress and standing which may at the discretion of the Department or of the principal consular officer be from time to time called for.

(i) Effect of failure in examinations

Failure in the final examinations of any one year shall ordinarily involve the withdrawal of the Foreign Service officer from the institution at which he is studying and the termination of his candidacy for language assignment. This step shall not be taken, however, until the opinion of the competent authorities of the institution has been given in writing and considered by the Personnel Board.

(j) Assignments during vacation period of institutions attended

Whenever possible Foreign Service officers engaged in formal language study shall be temporarily assigned to some post in the Near East, in Eastern Europe or in North Africa during the vacation period of the institutions which they are attending.

(k) Promotion

A Foreign Service officer, Unclassified, ($2,500 salary group), who has successfully undergone the probationary period and who has passed the examinations prescribed to be taken at the conclusion thereof, shall be promoted to fill the first existing vacancy in the next higher salary group of Foreign Service Officers, Unclassified. He shall be entitled to one further such advancement upon completing one year of formal language study and passing creditably the prescribed final examinations for that year. Upon completing the full course of study and receiving a diploma he will be eligible for promotion to fill the first existing vacancy in the class in the Foreign Service next above that in which he is at the time of completing the full course of study and receiving a diploma.

(l) Length of service required

It shall be the policy of the Department to assign a Foreign Service officer who has completed the course of study specified in paragraph (g) to duty in or connected with the Near East, Eastern Europe, or North Africa for a period of at least ten consecutive years.

(m) Regional assignments

As a temporary measure and in order to meet the immediate needs of the Service the Personnel Board may designate for regional assignments in the Near East, in Eastern Europe, or in North Africa and for study in connection therewith any Foreign Service officer who has already had experience in those parts of the world, whether in the Foreign Service or otherwise, and who can satisfactorily establish the seriousness of his desire and his qualifications for regional assignments.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 4892, MAY 26, 1928

REGULATIONS GOVERNING FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICERS ASSIGNED FOR LANGUAGE STUDY IN CHINA AND JAPAN

Amending Chapter IV-8 of the Instructions to Diplomatic Officers of the United States and establishing subparagraph (o) of that Chapter.

IV-8. Regulations governing Foreign Service officers assigned for language study in China and Japan

The following regulations will hereafter govern the assignment, training, and promotion of Foreign Service officers assigned to China and Japan for language study:

(a) Nature and purpose of assignment

The assignment of Foreign Service officers to China and Japan for language study is for the training of personnel for the Foreign Service in China and Japan, where an essential part of the equipment of officers is a knowledge of the Chinese and Japanese languages. Consistently with that purpose, a limited number of appointees in the unclassified grade of the Foreign Service with a salary of $2,500 who have shown a special aptitude for acquiring languages, and who possess the other necessary qualifications will be assigned from time to time as the needs of the Service require, to China and Japan where they will be required to study the Chinese and Japanese languages and such other languages and subjects as may be required by these regulations or subsequent instructions.

(b) Allowances

In addition to his salary, each Foreign Service officer on language assignment is allowed $350 per annum for tuition, but this allowance ceases upon completion of the language assignment.

(c) Entrance on duty

Foreign Service officers assigned for language study will report for duty to the head of the diplomatic mission in China or Japan, as the case may be, or to such other place as may be designated, and, except as otherwise provided herein, will remain there two years.

(d) Nature of duties

After entering upon their duties at the mission or other place designated, Foreign Service officers on language assignment will devote their time to the study of the language of the country and the other subjects listed in subparagraph (f), under the supervision of the head of the office and under the immediate direction of the language secretary or other designated officer, to the end that they may acquire the ability to read, write, and speak the language, as well as a good knowledge of the other subjects prescribed. In addition to the foregoing, such officers will be required at the same time to study the local business methods and trade practices. The study of consular regulations, and administration will be included after the first year.

(e) Progress examinations

Foreign Service officers on language assignment will be examined quarterly by the language officer of the mission, or other designated officer.

(f) Examinations for promotion

At the end of one year and again at the end of two years after entry on duty at the mission or other office, Foreign Service officers on language assignment shall be examined for promotion in accordance with the courses of study prescribed by the missions in the countries to which such officers are assigned and approved by the Department and which shall cover the following subjects:

- Chinese and Japanese languages (moderately difficult conversation, official and commercial correspondence, and translation from newspapers and periodicals).
- Political history and political institutions of the country.
- Commercial geography of the country.
- Foreign trade of the country.
- Elementary knowledge of such of the laws of the country as pertain to the duties which the student may ultimately be called upon to perform.
- Consular and Diplomatic regulations and administration (second year).

(g) Method of examination

These examinations shall be held by a board composed of the language secretary of the mission, one other Foreign Service officer, and one qualified American designated by the head of the mission. The examinations shall be both oral and written, and in order to pass officers must receive a rating of 80 on a scale of 100 on languages and an average of 80 on a scale of 100 on all other subjects.

The findings of the board, accompanied by the papers in the written examinations, and a detailed report of the special qualifications, industry, moral conduct, and dependableness of each officer will be made by the head of the mission to the Secretary of State for consideration and approval. Inasmuch as the findings of the board are not effective until approved, no information in regard to the ratings given by the board should be communicated to the candidates except upon the specific authority of the Secretary of State.

All examinations will take place at the diplomatic mission unless orders to the contrary are issued by the Secretary of State. In the event that the exigencies of the service shall not permit officers who may have been assigned elsewhere to return to Tokyo and Peking for the purpose of examination, the head of the mission may, after the preparation of the papers by the language officer, mail them in personal and sealed envelopes to the officer in charge of the post at which the candidate for examination is serving, who shall conduct the written examinations in the same manner as if they were being held at the diplomatic mission, leaving the oral part of the examination to be taken at the diplomatic mission or elsewhere when feasible, as the Secretary of State may determine in each case.

(h) Effect of failure in examination

If the Foreign Service officer assigned for language study shall be unable to pass either of the prescribed examinations, unless his failure arises from causes which would justify a continuation of language study, and reexamination, his assignment for language study shall be terminated and he shall be assigned elsewhere for duty.

(i) Promotion

A Foreign Service officer assigned for language study shall be promoted to fill the first existing vacancy in the next higher salary group of Foreign Service officers, unclassified, upon passing the examination required to be taken at the end of the first year of his assignment, and to one further such advancement upon passing the examination required to be taken at the end of the second year of his assignment, as set forth in subparagraph (f) of these regulations.

(j) Duties

A Foreign Service officer having thus qualified in the language shall be assigned at the discretion of the Secretary of State for duty at one of the consulates or at the diplomatic mission in the country where the language is used. Such officers are subordinate to the principal officer at the post to which they may be assigned, and it will be their duty to perform, under his direction, the work of translating and interpreting and such other duties in the office as may in the judgment of the officer in charge be necessary, including the preparation of accounts, the drafting of correspondence, the filing and recording of correspondence, the certification of invoices, notarial work, the handling of citizenship and passport cases, the coding and decoding of telegrams, and the preparation of trade reports.

Consistent with the exigencies of the service, it will be the policy of the Department to assign an officer trained in the language for an initial period of five consecutive years, exclusive of the period spent on language assignment, or periods devoted to leave, to posts in the country where he has done his language study.

(k) Performance of office work by Foreign Service officers on language assignment

Foreign Service officers attached to a mission or other office for language study may be required, in the discretion of the chief of mission, to perform some minor part of the official work of the office to the end that they may gain useful knowledge of the mode of transacting official business and of the forms and practices employed therein. In Japan, work in the Consulate General at Tokyo will, as far as practicable, be substituted for work in the Embassy. The chief of mission will be careful, however, not to permit duties of the character mentioned to interfere with the duties of the officer in acquiring a thorough knowledge of the language of the country.

(l) Optional examination for promotion

No examinations for promotion other than those specified in subparagraph (f) shall be required, but any Foreign Service officer who has successfully completed the language assignment provided for in the foregoing paragraphs of these regulations may, after the expiration of a period of not less than one year, if he desires, present himself for a further examination for promotion. This examination shall cover the following subjects:

Advanced Chinese and Japanese (conversation, composition, and translation from newspapers and current periodicals).

Political history and political institutions of the country.

Commercial geography, resources, and industries of the country.

Foreign trade of the country.

The law of the country as affecting foreigners.

Consular and Diplomatic regulations and practice.

(m) Method of examination

The method of examination will be that described in subparagraph (g) of these regulations.

(n) Promotion

Upon successfully passing the foregoing examination, a Foreign Service officer whose efficiency record is in other respects satisfactory will be eligible for promotion to fill the first available vacancy in the class in the Foreign Service next above that in which he is at the time when he presents himself for examination. The rule now followed, that no officer will be recommended for advancement before the expiration of eighteen months after his most recent promotion shall not be applicable in making the promotion provided for in this paragraph.

(o) Regional assignments

In order to meet special needs of the Service, the Personnel Board may designate for regional assignments in China and Japan and for study in connection therewith any Foreign Service officer who has already had experience in those parts of the world, whether in the Foreign Service or otherwise, and who can satisfactorily establish the seriousness of his desire and his qualifications for regional assignments. Subparagraphs (i) and (n) of these regulations will not apply to officers designated for regional assignment and study under this subparagraph. Subparagraphs (i) and (n) apply only to those officers in the unclassified grade with salary of $2500 selected under the provisions of subparagraph (a). Officers designated for regional assignment and study under this subparagraph will be promoted in such manner and at such times as may be considered equitable by the Personnel Board, due regard being had to their previous record, their progress in their studies, and their relative standing as compared with other officers.
